Arbitration Experience

Christian W. Konrad has represented international organizations and businesses in a broad range of arbitration and litigation disputes. The disputes involved long-term energy contracts, complex construction contracts, concession agreements, entitlement to natural resources, immunity from jurisdiction, infrastructure projects, as well as mergers and acquisitions. He regularly advises clients on the protection of their investments and on the enforcement of arbitral awards and court judgments. Furthermore, he serves as Sole and Co-Arbitrator as well as Chairman to the Arbitral Tribunal in arbitration proceeding under the auspices of numerous arbitration institutions. He regularly publishes and lectures about his field of expertise.

Career

Prior to founding Konrad & Justich, Christian W. Konrad worked as Counsel in Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer's International Arbitration Group in London and Vienna. He also acted as Senior Associate in the International Dispute Resolution team of the Austrian Advocates Alliance, and was General Counsel in a Real Estate Development and Construction Company for many years.

Areas of Expertise

International commercial and investment arbitration, commercial law, public international law, construction and real estate law; energy (oil, gas, electricity and entitlement to natural resources), state and state entities.
