Profile

Andrew is the Head of Adelaide Dispute Resolution for Piper Alderman. He has been a partner of Piper Alderman since 2002 having previously been a partner in a boutique litigation practice. He has over 15 years experience in all forms of dispute resolution including litigation at all levels of the State and Federal jurisdictions. Andrew is also experienced in non-litigious dispute resolution such as mediation, conciliation, arbitration and expert determination.

Andrew has undertaken specialist training in domestic arbitration (the University of Adelaide’s Professional Certificate in Arbitration and Mediation), international arbitration (the University of New South Wales’ Diploma in International Commercial Arbitration) and in mediation (the Institute of Arbitrators and Mediators Australia’s Practitioners’ Certificate in Mediation and Conciliation). He is an accredited mediator and a graded arbitrator.

Andrew is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (CIArb), the Australian Centre for International Commercial Arbitration (ACICA) and the Institute of Arbitrators and Mediators Australia (IAMA). He is also a member of the Australasian Forum for International Arbitration and the past South Australian representative of that organisation.

Andrew acts as both solicitor and counsel (with and without a leader) in the State and Federal jurisdictions and in arbitrations and mediations.

He is a founding member of the Society of Construction Law Australia and a member of the Society’s management committee.

He was a National Councillor of IAMA for four years and is a member of the South Australian Chapter Committee of IAMA. He is a former South Australian representative of the Australasian forum for International Arbitration.

He writes the Australian updates for the PLC Arbitration multi-jurisdictional monthly email and Andrew has also provide commentary to the Global Arbitration Review. He lectures to the post-graduate Practical Legal Training course on arbitration and has lectured and tutored at the University of Adelaide’s Professional Certificate in Arbitration.

Andrew is also a qualified accountant (CPA) and is a former National and current South Australian Treasurer of IAMA.
